The Rayen Annual

1949

The Rayen School

Youngstown, Ohio

Among the significant years in American history 1849 is remembered perhaps even more than 1776 or 1861, if one thinks of song or story. The men of '49 were of heroic mould and they builded greater than they knew. They sought, to be sure, to gain easy wealth, but they paid in sweat and blood and tears for gain and loss alike. As they followed that will-o-wisp of California their real gain was unsuspected, for they became the path-finders of an empire that was to stretch from sea to sea.

We of another '49 hail the brave heroes of a hundred years ago. We are enjoying the fruits of their toil as we have pursued our education, will-o-wisp in its nature too, in this free and mighty land.

This book contains our record, for us all gain. Its story of work and play will be read, we hope, for many a long year even unto the days of another century.

Mr. Robert G. Marsteller, a loyal son of Rayen, has been for many years a teacher of history and French at his Alma Mater. His service as sponsor of the Annual is indicative of his willingness to devote his time and talent to anything that concerns the welfare of his school.

By his sympathetic approach and deep understanding of their problems he has won the confidence and admiration of a host of students.

Leaving his position for a year, he took his young family on a long journey westward, reminiscent of that pioneer migration of one hundred years ago which this book commemorates. To him in the land of his sojourn this book of the class of 1949 is affectionately dedicated.

It was in January, 1945, that our band of adventurers started on the trip through Rayen. As we climbed into our covered wagons, Joan Bernard took the lead and from then on she always guided us.

Things were rather quiet our first year except that one day, when it became stormy, Lene Basile and Congetta La Marco, also Edith Constantino and Delores Corsell tied their wagons together; and our football heroes, Donald Heller, Steve Meandjia, and Dan Castilla, had to untangle them, of course not without the help of Jerome Bernstein, who gave directions. In our first year we met and won over our rivals, the South High Warriors, a brutal tribe of Indians.

In our second year, we had our share of hardships; but we only had to look at petite Betty Massaro, smiling Jackie Holcomb, cute Louise Pishok, or pretty Delores Vechiarella and all troubles were forgotten.

Along the way we often stopped to dance to the band of Bill Long, Jack Hammitt and Jack Crew; and we were entertained by those amazing dancers, Billy Brandozzi and vivacious Delores Crisucci.

Then things began to happen which almost wrecked our wagons. Marian Charles and Angeline Dimow were playing basketball, and their ball rolled underneath the wagons of quiet Helen Puhala and Effie Copoulos who really shouted about that; but Mike Kiraly, our Casanova, and polite Joe Noble gave a helping hand and we continued on our way.

We often stopped to hear the singing of Rose Mary Torisk, Antamella Ruggiero, Helen Kowach, Paul Gluck, Emedio Di Piero, and Mary Herring of Girls' Octette.

Althought most of us were often tired and dusty, William Nykytuk was always dressed nicely. Wonder if Gloria Jean Julian made any of his clothes? The journey was often held up because the girls wanted to learn the latest hair styles from Sophia Woak.

In our third year we were amazed to discover that Richard Liebman was the "Bat." It was then that lively Red Powers and cute Mary Ann Miller decided to join us on our journey. Times were never dull when Red was near or when George Raiger and Marvin Stevens were together.

We often strayed from the course; but while William Anderson, Vollie Fant, and William Eldridge mapped our course, Marie Orlando would type the plans, and we would be on our way once more.

Our last and final year brought forth much hardship but also a great deal of fun. Many of us decided to learn to drive our "covered wagons"; and what a time we had telling Lois Heslen to be quiet or wondering why Loretta Tarantine never spoke a word.

There were also boys who were very quiet: Matthew Findlay, Patrick Fleming and Lawrence Caras. We can never forget the witty Irene Harrison, petite Rita Fabian, happy-go-lucky Jessie Williams, attractive Marguerite Thompson, or pretty Joyce Holly.

At the end of our journey, we had a wonderful dance to celebrate; and it was then that we crowned our beautiful Queen, Helen Danta, and our handsome King, Nick Petrella.

It was strenuous but fun, and we will never forget our eventful four-year journey through Rayen.

The stream-lined Diesel train slowed down and finally came to a stop. With a screeching of brakes and a sudden lurch, the trip was over. After descending the steps of the train onto the platform, some passengers hustled to make further connections. Others went to the waiting room to determine whether they would go any farther or end their itinerary there, while a few others walked out of the station to go out into life.

There was an air of cheerfulness about the passengers, but yet one could sense an underlying feeling of sadness. They knew they would miss their good times together and the fun they had had on the train trip. They knew they would miss the engineer and the conductor on the train.

Why, they could remember when they first boarded the train in Freshmensville. It seemed a long time ago, and yet it didn't seem so long after all. . . .

In September 1945, many young and anxious travelers from Hayes boarded the Rayen train for a four-year trip of education with Mr. Tear as engineer. The conductor shouted, "All aboard" and the students raced through the coaches to their classes to get started studying. Miss Rogers and Mr. Lindsay were chaperones to keep the students in good order, but these passengers knew how to conduct themselves.

Many of the passengers did not know each other at first but the friendliness and fine personalities of Joan Gold, Babette Goldstein, and James McFadden soon broke the ice. The first year of the trip wasn't very hard. The weather was good and the train glided on the rails with ease.

Soon the conductor shouted, "Sophomoresville." The train slowed down and some more passengers boarded the train from Hayes. The new passengers soon became acquainted with the crowd and the trip continued as one big happy family.

The trip at this time began to get a little rough, for the snow of latin and the sleet of math had begun to fall and it became a cold and hard journey. The unpleasant weather caused some students to get off the train and discontinue their trip. The other brave and hardy travelers continued on. The train sped on and later came to the station at Juniorsville. Only one passenger boarded the train here. The one lonely passenger was Mary Ryan.

The ride from here on to Diplomaville was full of fun and merriment. We were entertained by those talented actors and actresses JoAnn Kaye, Sally Weiss, Bob Leake, Fred Boyes and Nora Glass in their presentation of "Every Family Has One."

Other talent on the trip was shown by Sally Hogan's and Tizzy O'Connor's drawings, Jack Matteson's piano playing, Helen Craig's and Mary Barganier's lovely voices, Harold Engelbaugh's public speaking, Walter Weglein's superb writing, and by Toby Regenstreich who had a special talent for getting into trouble.

June Class History

If the problem was a chemistry problem the "mad chemists", Suzie Parker, Mario Santangelo, and Lucille Swaim, were sure to figure out the answer.

For executive ability we had our President Tom Mulligan, Vice President Anne Funcheon, Secretary CeCe Bersch and Treasurer Don Lewis along with us.

The beauty of the passing scenery took second place to the beauty of Phyllis Vitullo, Mary Patuto and Ruthie Kane.

As the passengers talked and laughed and studied, the train sped on and soon pulled into Seniorsville. The trip was coming near its end and everyone was becoming excited and nervous. Many could not sleep at night, so a few members of the Girls' Octette, Arlene Schultz, Ruth Bloom, Charlotte Ince, Nancy Jamison and Pat Thompson helped lull them to sleep accompanied by Mary Vogt, Irving Jacobson and his trumpet, Elio DiRusso, Andy Canellas and Posey Welsh and her flute.

Julius Jackson, who played very well on the football team and spoke well for the team in many assemblies, was along on the trip with Tony Crish and football manager, Art Morris. Doris Duffy, Jean Donnelly and Roberta Frazier were a few of the athletes of the opposite sex.

Even though much of the trip was hard and rough, Clara Lou Adams and Annette Pascarella succeeded in looking as neat and fresh and fashionable as if they had just stepped out of "Vogue Magazine."

About four months before the trip was over, the passengers bought rings for souvenirs of their journey and had their pictures taken to give their friends to remember them by. But even though the rings might tarnish and the pictures might fade, they knew certain memories would always remain clear in their minds; as Florence Lackey's surprise that she didn't blow herself up when she made nitrogen gas in chemistry lab, Martha Humbert's crush on a certain football star, Dave Ridel and William Moskalik forever singing that all they wanted for Christmas was their "Two Front Teeth", and Bill Kinder, Mickey Kaufman, and Bill Smith's zest and inexhaustible energy, and of course, Anne Morrison, who was everywhere and in everything.

Then the conductor shouted, "Diplomaville", and here they were. . . .

So it was the end of a most enjoyable trip for many students, but to the others who would go on, it was only a stop-over on the road to higher learning.

And the travelers sadly part from their friends,
With a nod and a beck, a smile and a sigh.
They say so long, farewell—goodbye.

UNDERGRADS

Our covered wagon train is rolling merrily along. We expect to reach our destination in January, 1950. Although we have had several obstacles in our path, we have managed to surmount them.

In our different wagons we have various talented pioneers. Among the comedians of the troupe are William Berman, Paul O'Dea, Eugene Tareshawty, and Carl Glaser. They manage to keep our journey lively and interesting.

We have one wagon in the long train which bears a sign with the inscription "Trigonometry" printed on it. Inside we find several of our students, Lucille Swaim, Ralph D'Onofrio, and Dan Hom studying industriously. "Trig" is rough and rocky, but somehow we struggled through it.

Mid-Year Senior Class

Then there is an unusual wagon in the train. This one is entitled "Chemistry B or not to B." The unusualness comes from the strange doings of the students within. They include Nancy Mock, who is always trying to blow up the lab, Nancy Price and her astounding chemical combinations, and Gail Bunshaft with her mixed-up formulas.

Close behind this are several wagonloads of English students. Some of them are trying to increase their vocabulary for those big spelling tests, while others are busily writing their themes.

Among the artists who paint the beautiful panoramas of our journey is one genius, Mark Klyn. His paintings are creative and imaginative.

Farther on in our caravan are our athletes. They team up to ward off the attacks of the Indians—namely, South High Warriors. Among our great football stars are none other than Calvin Harrison, the sensational end, Patsy Pollifrone, who was injured in an early attack, Warren Orechoneg, our place-kicker and handy man, and a host of others including Dom Buzzacco, Spike Zone, and Ralph D'Onofrio. Then there is our great basketball star, Bob Graves, and Bill Davis, on the track team. And we must not forget our tennis star, Jim Pickering.

In the evening when our wagon train comes to a stop and we all sit down to rest awhile, we have that mad drummer, Richard Mondora, and John Castor to limber up his legs for some of that jitter-bug. When we want varied entertainment we call for those experienced actors Carl Glaser, Chuck Creager, Mark Klyn, Nancy Mock, and Barbara Savage. And to help us forget our troubles we turn to the Boys' Octet, which includes Jack Miller, Paul Schmidt, and Chuck Creager, while they render forth "My Buddy" and "The Road is Calling."

All this adds up to one large, happy group approaching the end of its journey. We can already see the outcome on the horizon.

Mid-Year Senior Class History

Junior Class

Well, here we are on the trail through the Rockies, the third year of the trip just completed. It wasn't too hard because we had a good wagon and excellent guides.

Strange as it may seem, there was an old piano with us from our early days on the journey. This was convenient for Delores Severin, Betty Ritz, and Elseanne Peguis to play.

Grouped around the campfire are the Junior members of both octets. In the background we see the chorus of all the A Cappella members. While we are on the subject of music, what would the concerts be without "Lee" Gordon, "Boogie" Locke and Janie Bailey?

Then we have Ted Kesselman and Cecelia Rossman who know all the answers from keeping us on the right trail to—well, just about everything.

From the edge of the group we hear familiar lines from the last play, "The Divine Flora." How can we ever forget those long hours of practice?

For humor we have Irving Protetch and Dick Craver.

A few of us showed our talents in some new games learned from the Indians—something like football and basketball. These were Bill Horvath, Bill Raiger and Victor Leone, while Rodger Morris and Morton Merchey were kept busy helping injured players off the field.

Then again some instruments from back East attracted Mary Ann De Tosta, Ken Luchansky, "Zeke" Westerman and Maureen Bunshaft to Band and Orchestra.

The members of N. F. L., like David Page, Joan Donnelly, Sylvan Socolick, and Barbara Nemer helped us to keep up on current problems.

All of us are seeking gold in the form of a diploma. We'll get there! (We hope) After all we're three-fourths of the way now.

Junior Class History

Sophomore Class

As our grandfathers traveled across the country toward their goal, California and gold, so we, the class of '51, have barely begun our journey toward our goal—graduation and a diploma. We are nearly to the half-way mark of our journey, with two more years to go. Oh, how long it seems! Will the coming part of our trip be harder and rougher as the last part was for our grandfathers, or shall we find the road made easier by kind teachers, many and true friends, and good times? True, our good times are very different from those of the forty-niners, yet we manage to enjoy ourselves.

Here we are now, resting by a campfire, after our first struggles, and remembering the fun we have had.

Among the many present, we see on the far side, no doubt telling one of her many jokes, sweet Rosemary O'Malley. Near her, and laughing heartily are Janet Hart, Shirley Mock, and Janet Ruihley. Popular Betta Miller, with a group of friends around her, is also enjoying the joke. Too bad there isn't a piano around, so that Jo Ann King could give us some of her wonderful music. Oh, oh, there are those Grose twins, Bill and Fay, trying to start up some kind of mischief. Speaking of mischief, Judy O'Hara, Marcia Engster, Jay Hogan, and Mary Jarvis aren't far behind. Well, you might know it! There's Joe Julius, trying to get someone to jitterbug. Look, here comes Jimmy "Corny" Cartwright with Dot McConnell and Marilyn Hearn and, no doubt, with some more of his jokes. There's Frances Breslyn with her pretty blond hair, talking with George Barris.

While Nancy Weller is playing her flute, Janice Abrigg and Gerry Evans practice twirling their batons. Looking on and enjoying it all, are Audrey Hannon and Joyce Roberts. Hmmmmmm! David Page and Leonard Spector seem to be chuckling over something—! Look! They're giving Babette Soule a hot foot! Just like Leonard. Well, there's really some work going on. Here comes Howard Mallek and Bob Lipton, carrying some wood to the fire. Sally Philibin and Joan Gray seem to be having a mighty interesting conversation.

All of us sitting around the campfire, surrounded by friends and classmates, become gradually quieter as we think of the trip before us. What will the last lap of our trip bring, when we make our last campfire in June, 1951?

Sophomore Class History

Last September the freshman class of '49 pushed forward to Rayen with all the spirit and zeal of the original "49ers." Enthusiasm swelled high as we began our first step toward reaching our goal in '52.

Helping the class speed on its way, are our officers: President, Margaret Hall; Vice-President, Shirley Cohen; and Secretary, Virginia Palaologos. Leading the class in scholastic standing, are Josephine Adams, Wilma Cipperly, and Richard Gross.

The lost chord will soon be found when new notes are added to A Cappella, in the form of Rachel Scali, Stanley Meader, Bessie Osgood, Ted Hart, Fred Lenz, Howard Lollar, Arthur Volpert, Carol Constantine, Barbara Jamison, Dana Fogg, and Fred Jones.

New faces brightening band and orchestra are Arlene Cohen on the French horn, Donna Waldman with her violin, and Donald Williamson on the drums.

In January, we were joined by another freshman class who, like ourselves, worked long and hard before reaching the doors of Rayen School. They are already beginning to show that they too, take interest and pride in our school. Esther Lazar and Garnet Ritz have already joined the band, while others are waiting till next semester to take part in school activities.

We, the freshman class of '49, are trying hard to make our school proud of us, as we begin now to dig deep into the gold mines of Rayen.

Football

Although this year's team cannot claim any titles, they have given us many breath-taking thrills, and it was as scrappy a team as you'll ever find.

Let's go back to August and look in on coaches Koma and Robinette. They are sending their team through drills, and several spectators comment that Rayen School looks like one of the best in the city. Then the hatchet falls! Within two weeks after the first game, seven members of Rayen's starting line-up are side-lined with injuries; this is what really defeated the Rayenites.

Running through the schedule, we recall the way we dug in and held Wilson to a 6-6 tie for three quarters until our reserves strength faltered, and we lost 19-6.

Our injury-riddled gridders couldn't catch Skvarka, the Struthers speed merchant, and that meant a close 12-0 defeat.

For our next encounter, we journeyed to Farrell. We were trailing by only two points at half time, but Burney, Horvath, and McBride received injuries, and Farrell emerged victorious by a 32-6 score.

We shall pass the Chaney game by simply stating that Chaney won, 31-6, in a rough and tumble affair.

Rayen warmed up in the Warren game, but dropped a close 20-13 decision, after leading for three quarters.

Tony Crish was the only member of Rayen's backfield who could get started against Ursuline, and he alone couldn't counter-act the terrific Irish offense. The result was a 32-6 defeat for the Orange and Black.

At Salem, it was "Boots" Burney's great ninety-six yard run and the accurate toe of "Bobo" Orechoney that assured a Rayen victory. With Julius Jackson leading the pack, the underdog Rayen team chalked up its only win, by a 14-13 count.

The Salem victory cost coach Koma three more gridders, and more green players had to face a vastly improved South squad. When the mud-soaked gladiators emerged from the field of battle, Rayen was on the short end of a 19-0 verdict.

Julius Jackson, team captain, was first-string All-County and second-string All-City; and Boots Burney was also selected for second-team All-City honors. Don Heller, Tom Mulligan, Julius Jackson, and Tony Crish were members of the North All-Stars.

Basketball

Starting with a green team, coach Ralph Robinette built his team into one of the finest in the district. Although they didn't win all their games, they always gave a good account of themselves and never did you hear a Rayen boy "crab" to an official. That is truly a mark of good sportsmanship and good coaching.

The scoring was paced throughout the season by Bill Raiger, Bob Wise, Bill Horvath, and "Boots" Burney. Rebounds were handled effectively by Bill Raiger, Bob Graves, and "Boots" Burney. Although Graves, Burney, and Horvath are small, they made up for it with hustle.

Capable reserves were to be had such as "Bo Bo" Orechoneg, "Skip" McBride, "Jake" Ewashko, Ray Gray, Omie Williams, LeRoy Jackson, and Mike Hagerty. The entire squad, with the exception of LeRoy Jackson, will be back next year and there are good prospects for an excellent season.

Rayen's golf team upheld the fine record compiled by past aggregations with another successful season. The Rayenites were victorious in 10 out of 12 matches and copped the City Series title for the 16th time in 21 years.

In tournament play the "Bearers of the Orange and Black banner" emerged from the Youngstown District Amateur Golf Association in first place. They were second at Yankee Run and they copped third place honors in the North Eastern Ohio Tournament.

The '48 team was comprised of Captain Jim Goldie, the medalist, Dan Castilla, Perry Weiss, John Mock, and Gene Green. And we must not forget Kip Head, who very efficiently served in the capacity of manager. Mr. Ken Pickering was once again at the helm as coach of the linksmen.

The '49 team will be as green as the grass they play on but Coach Pickering expects to have Hal Englebaugh, Ted Kesselman, Dick Keller, Dick Craver, Eddie Patuto, and Sandy Rock come through the season with many honors. Gene Green, who has used up his eligibility, will serve as manager, and he will also assist Mr. Pickering in coaching the squad.

Have you ever noticed suspicious-looking people sneaking into Rayen on Tuesday or Wednesday nights? Well, don't worry. They aren't carrying those guns to frighten people. They are just trying to become junior Annie Oakleys and Dan'l Boones. In fact, several members of the Rifle Team are well on their way.

Newcomers Jack Coyne, Nick Errington, Harold Englebaugh, Dolores Kendall, and Bill Smith made a fine showing from the beginning. In the inter-scholastic and out of town matches, old-timers Jack Matteson, Bob Steffy, and Sally Hogan kept the team going.

There is always much to teach newcomers, but one thing we had to be very careful of. Whenever the order, "load pieces, aim, and fire at will," was given, we had to be very careful that Bill Smith did not accidentally get a bullet in his head. Then there were the people who shot up the brick wall behind the targets because they closed their eyes when they pulled the trigger. For a long time everyone was suffering from circles before the eyes, but we cured that by setting up candles and trying to shoot out the flames.

The Rifle Team concluded a very successful year, and next year holds great promises also, with Alex Yankush, Tom Scanlon, John Mann, Paul Courter, Roy Ducovac, Bill Schenker, and Owen Owen among the returning members.

Certainly much of the credit goes to coaches Dick Weichsel and Ted Bray, who have given willingly of their time and patience and knowledge of guns to make this a rifle team to be proud of.

The Girls' Athletic Association had a membership of fifty girls for the school year 1948-1949. Most of this membership was drawn from the girls who had earned points in the various sports the past year. The winning of one hundred points by playing in a tournament is the basis for membership.

G.A.A. has a system whereby girls can receive an old English "R" after accumulating 900 points. It usually takes three years for this. Since most of the girls came from Hayes in their sophomore year, they are often Seniors before they receive their "R". In September five girls received their letters. They are Delores NeCaster, Pauline Abate, Marian Charles, Betty Massaro, and Emma Tisone. These girls all graduated in January. Also, there are six girls who will receive their "R" after volley-ball season. These girls are Doris Duffy, Roberta Frazier, Theresa Ialungo, Eleanor Howell, Charlotte Stenger, and Dorothy Carter.

Because of the graduation of our president Pauline Abate, in January, Jeanette Ballack is now acting president.

The social activities play an important part in the G.A.A. program. There are about five parties a year: a get-acquainted party in September, a Christmas party, a Valentine's Day party, and a March and April meeting, which are typical athletic programs. The year is climaxed by an annual picnic at the Crandall Park Cabin, at which the new officers for the next year are elected.

Yea Team, Fight! Fight! Fight! On, Old Rayen! Sock It To 'Em, Tigers!

These and other cheers echoed through the rallies, the football games, and the basketball games as Rayen's faithful cheerleaders led the students in cheering on "Dear Old Rayen."

These cheerleaders, who worked long hours before and after school, deserve due credit for their work. They are Eva Blanton, Captain; Faye Henry, Joan Wilson, Louise Swencicki, Yvonne Davis, Marguerite Thompson, and Robert Steffy. Their zeal and enthusiasm added pep and color to all the athletic events.

Under the direction of Coach Ralph Robinette, the 1948 Rayen track team emerged victorious in three events, lost one, and tied one.

The track team dropped the opener at Boardman on a rainy day, 64-54; but it recovered in the next meet to trounce Fitch, 70-48. Rayen then defeated the Warren team, 62-56; but tied with Struthers 59 all. In the last event of the season, Rayen duplicated the score 70-48 by outclassing Poland.

The class meet was won by the Juniors, who edged the Sophmores by one point, and the Seniors by three.

Five members of the 1948 team, D. McConnell, F. Halfacre, C. Vaughn, R. Lynch, and J. Bolling qualified for and participated in the State meet at Columbus.

A Cappella Choir

There is something about singing favorite songs with well-loved friends that touches the soul of each of us. For a few short minutes each day we forget our nagging problems and fears in abandoning ourselves to the beauty of music, the art that can transcend all barriers and find a direct route into each human heart.

The A Cappella hasn't always been the integral part of Rayen's life that it is now. In 1929 when Mr. Nischwitz first came to Rayen there was only a mere handful of students interested in music. To be exact there were twenty-eight girls and ten boys. However, within a year the vocal department had grown to about one hundred. Twenty of these became the nucleus of the first choir.

In 1933 the first public performance was given at the invitation of Mr. Thomas Weber, a nationally known organist, at Stambaugh Auditorium before a full house. Mr. Weber was so impressed with the choir that he invited them to sing at his concerts for seven successive years.

1936 saw the first of several annual broadcasts by the choir from WTAM in Cleveland.

In 1942 the choir was asked to sing for the first time with the Youngstown Symphony Orchestra, and, at a later concert in 1945, Mr. Ficocelli said that it was one of the most thrilling experiences he had ever had.

To the choir outside engagements are the "spice of life." Over a period of years the choir has sung in most of the surrounding towns and in all of the large churches in Youngstown.

The choir is beginning to have "second generation" members, children of the first choir members.

The choir will never forget the stirring solo of Charlette Ince in "A Christmas Card," nor will we ever forget Booker Newberry's "Nobody Knows." Helen Craig will always be remembered for her rendition of Nisch's favorite "Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes." The choir wishes to express their sincere thanks to Miss Judy Helsel and Master Robert Savage, the children to whom Dave Ridel sang " 'Twas the Night Before Christmas."

Every year graduates from the choir try to tell "Nisch" how much singing in the choir and associating with him have meant to them. It is very hard to find words to express our feelings so let us just say that, like the other hundreds of his "kids," we shall never forget him and we consider knowing him and singing in the A Cappella one of the most enjoyable experiences of our life.

The Rayen School Orchestra is slowly moving toward the realization of its ambition to become a full symphony orchestra. More and more stringed instruments were added through the year, and by the time of the spring concert in May, the orchestra boasted thirteen violins, two violas, two cellos and two string basses, these being augmented by the usual windwood, brass and percussion sections.

Under the direction of John F. Busch, the orchestra rehearsed each day and many nights after school. Frances Breslyn and Mary Ann Di Tosto took it upon themselves to be student assistants and gave much time after school to help other orchestra members.

Elio Di Russo, first clarinetist for the orchestra, won a "T" rating at the solo contest and qualified for the state finals at Columbus.

In addition to the fall and spring concerts, the orchestra played for Rayen Commencements, plays, and assemblies.

Rayen School should be proud of the work of its orchestra, and the theme song the members chant is, "This is only the beginning."

Concert Orchestra

At the "half" of the Rayen-South football game, Rayen easily won the battle of the bands. Getting new caps and citation cords gave the band a new look. By combining flashlights, peppy marches, snappy drills and maneuvers, dance steps, and popular tunes the Rayen Marching Band was not bested once in any of our nine football games of the 48-49 season. One of the most popular of the dance steps was a "boogie beat," which the crowd enjoyed very much.

John F. Busch, the band director, admits he got inspiration from Ohio State and Michigan Universities as well as Massilon and other famous high school bands; however, a great many of the band successes were due to Mr. Busch's ingenuity.

To appreciate fully the story of the Marching Band, you'd have to go behind the scenes. A good deal of credit goes to the Drum Majors, Ronnie Burdman and Stanley Shensa. On many hot September evenings and also early mornings these boys proved to be the dust covered figures lining the practice field so that it would look like the football field. There must be no guesswork at a football game. Besides giving valuable assistance at rehearsals, they spent much time after school helping inexperienced band members with drill and dance steps.

Richard Wallis was quarter-master. He saw to it that each band member had a complete uniform, and also took charge of school owned instruments. In charge of the drum section, he and his group proved that they were very dependable.

The four majorettes, Marlene Schnauffer, Ruth Streiner, Gerry Evans, and Janice Abrigg gave a good deal of their own time to work out dance and twirling routines under the capable direction of Marlene.

Most of the credit goes to the forty-seven members of the band itself. They came faithfully to the morning rehearsals at seven-thirty in all kinds of weather. They came for extra rehearsals at night and after school. For many it was a definite sacrifice because of the distance they lived from school. Some band members played another instrument for the benefit of the band. Johnny Petrone and Stanley Shensa played the big bass horn and Jay Hogan played the bass drum, just to mention a few.

This year for the first time in the history of Rayen School, marching band members were given awards of special letters for their work.

After football season, the concert band was formed. They gave a fall concert as well as a spring concert.

The Rayen Marching Band ended the school year by marching in the Memorial Day Parade after which it received well-deserved awards.

"When you come to the end of a perfect year." The melodious strains of the traditional farewell song of the Girls' Octette drift out of room 228 and show that another graduation is near, and graduating members of the Girls' Octette are saying farewell.

Those who are graduating and those who stay will always remember the laughs, the hard hours of rehearsal for the concerts, and the thrill of singing at the football games.

The Octette wishes to thank Delores Severin, our pianist, for her untiring, brilliant playing.

And last but not least, it wishes to thank "Nisch." Without his guidance, devotion, and leadership none of the work of the Octette could have been accomplished.

Girls' Octette

In passing the Music Room home room period, you hear the deep harmonious tones of the Boys' Octet. This organization is entirely an extra curricular activity: the boys use their spare time for rehearsals.

In the repertoire are such songs as the negro spiritual, "Deep River", "My Two Front Teeth", and last but not least "My Buddy".

In June the Boys' Octet will lose Dave Ridel and William Moskalik, who have helped to bring the Boys' Octet to the top.

To our pianist, Marvin Levick, and to the substitutes, Janie Bailey and Delores Severin, we wish to express our sincere thanks.

Also we wish to express our deep appreciation to our "Buddy Nisch" for the time and patience he has given to us.

Record Staff

Extra! Extra! Read all about it! The Rayen Record ends another successful year! For the fifth time Mrs. F. H. Keegan has guided The Record Staff through an eventful year.

You have no doubt noticed the extra emphasis on pictures in The Record. Jerry Braun and Sam Bishop, Record photographers, under the guidance of the staff, have caught scenes from the "Reindeer Hop", Prom royalty, many news pics, and varied "personalities" for The Record this year.

News, sports, comics, features, gossip, and editorials, you have read it all in The Record. Under the direction of Joan Bernard (editor for the first semester) and Patricia Stanley (editor for the second semester) the Record staff has put out a superior paper this year.

Circulation has increased 100% under the new plan of selling individual issues instead of semester subscriptions. The home room Record representatives have made this plan possible.

Two radio programs have been presented by Rayen's school paper on "The High School News Reel of the Air". The first broadcast, which was under the direction of staff members, Henry Pierce and Walter Weglein, was pronounced the best of the high school programs of the year.

As an added attraction The Record sponsored several exciting "mystery man" and "mystery woman" contests this year. The winners Cleta Luster, Charles Jones, and Dominic Marchese, received such awards as Record subscriptions, candy, and phonograph records.

History Club

The History Club, under the supervision of Miss Wallis, met on November 9 to elect officers.

Stanley Shensa was chosen president; Suzanne Parker, vice-president; Jack Matteson, treasurer; and Helen Locke, secretary. It is the aim of the History Club to promote interest in local, national, and international affairs.

On December 14, the Taft-Hartley Bill was discussed. Barbara Savage and Dick Craver exposed the danger of strikes in industries affecting public health and safety and emphasized the need to free unions from communist control. Jim McFadden and Lucille Swaim reviewed the benefits obtained by the workers since the passage of the Wagner Act. Ted Kesselman acted as moderator. Music was furnished by Rayen's swing band.

Stanley Shensa acted as moderator for the discussion on farm subsidies on March 8. Lucille DeAngelis and Irving Protetch explained the need for stable farm production under the protection of the Aiken Bill. William Berman and Michael Kaufman connected the high cost of food with the high wages and the inflated prices in the United States today. The Girls' Octette sang.

On April 12, Ted Kesselman and Martin Klyn upheld World Federation as the only sure medium for the preservation of peace. Alice and Lucille Swaim argued that the United Nations, already organized, could, with united effort, establish a peaceful world. Entertainment was furnished by the Boys' Octette.

The success of the club is attributed to Ted Kesselman, Pat Thompson, Joan Bernard, Cecelia Bersch, and Carolyn Gordon, committee chairmen.

The History Club, under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Wallis, began the year in December with a rousing debate on the topic, "Should the Taft-Hartley Bill be Amended?" Barbara Savage and Dick Craver represented the negative side while Lucille Swaim and Jim McFadden argued in favor of amendments. Ted Kesselman was the moderator. The Swing Band furnished enjoyable diversion.

The second debate took place on March 8 with Michael Kaufman and William Berman presenting the affirmative on the question, "Should Farm Prices be Subsidized?" Hank Pierce debate negatively. The moderator was Stanley Shensa and The Girls' Octette entertained the group with several vocal selections.

On April 12 the History Club discussed the query, "Would World Federation End War?" Lucille and Alice Swaim put before the group the negative side, while Ted Kesselman and Martin Klyn voiced their affirmative ideas. Entertainment was supplied by the Boys' Octette. Elinor Dunn acted as moderator.

Stanley Shensa was chosen the president and Suzanne Parker was made vice-president of the History Club. Jack Matteson and Helen Locke were elected treasurer and secretary, respectively. Several committees were picked with the following chairmen: Program committee, Ted Kesselman, Music, Ruth Bloom, Editorial, Joan Bernard and Cecelia Bersch, co-chairman, and membership chairman was Carolyn Gordon.

Latin Club

The Latin Club has long had a large part in the cultural life of the school. This year has been memorable because of achievements which have been beneficial to all.

The first Latin Club meeting took place early in the fall where newly elected officers presided. They are: President, James McFadden; Vice President, Jack Kleiner; Secretary, Mary Kay Jarvis; and Treasurer, Elinor Dunn. Entertainment was provided by members of the Latin classes who presented charades.

This year we wanted to buy a projector. We had a tax stamp drive which was a great success. Maurine Bunshaft won the prize, a bust of Hermes, for collecting the most stamps.

Mr. Ray Gossoff, who has always sent us a large supply of stamps, was our good benefactor and gave us twenty-five dollars to help pay for the projector. This gave us an opportunity to buy three sets of Kodachrome slides depicting scenes in Rome, the Roman Forum and Pompeii. These give our classes an opportunity to enjoy slides pertinent to our own work.

The annual Christmas party was enjoyed by all club members. Music for dancing was provided by the Rayen Swing Band under the direction of Mr. John Busch.

The week of April seventeenth was celebrated as Latin Week.

On April twenty-first, a tea was given for members and the parents. The Latin Classes presented the program. "Latin As the Basic Language" was the theme of the week.

Latin Week was highlighted by a broadcast on each of the radio stations of Youngstown. Monsignor Alfred Heinrich, Chancellor of the Youngstown Diocese, spoke over WKBN: Mr. George Kelly, of the Vindicator staff, spoke over WFMJ; and Mrs. Anjulie Keegan, of the Rayen faculty, spoke over WBBW. All three speakers spoke on "The Importance of Latin in the High School and College."

We believe that we have accomplished much this year and look forward to a reunion next year.

Y-Teens is a national junior chapter of the Y. W. C. A., in which all girls of high school age may unite to advance civic and national improvements, develop friendships with girls of all races and creeds, and thoroughly enjoy themselves while performing a worthwhile service to their school and community.

This year our members were entertained by a Christmas party, a joint Hi-Y Y-Teen Meeting, our annual banquet, and by Ted Connors of WFMJ who spoke to us on music.

In Interclub Council of Youngstown, our president, Pat Stanley, was elected vice president. Arlene Schultz and Clita Luster were our Interclub representatives.

We wish to thank Miss Sheehan and Miss Smith who have spent much time and patience in helping us to make Y-Teens a success.

"To create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community, high standards of Christian character."

This year The Rayen Hi-Y has had one of its most successful years and we wish to thank our advisor, Mr. Busch, for helping us with our work.

The first semester was handled by a very capable president, Bill Long. He was assisted by Pat Fleming, vice president; Carl Glaser, secretary; and Jack Hammitt, treasurer. Leading the club the second semester with the same idea of giving their best were: Phil Kramer, president; Carl Glaser, vice president; Gere Coffey, secretary; and Lawrence Jiminez, treasurer.

On October 29 the Hi-Y had their annual dance, and during the year there have been several hay-rides.

All this has helped to give Hi-Y one of its best years.

Lots of Luck

Should girls wear longer skirts or should boys wear shorter pants? As usual, the girls win by an overwhelming majority. We'll not let you wait another instant before telling you that the Rayen National Forensic League is one of the leaders in the field of speech.

Perhaps the most outstanding members of the group are the Swaim sisters who both hold the Degree of Distinction, but we must mention such people as Hal Engelbaugh, "Mac" MacFadden, Toby Regenstreich, and Eunice Feldman who have also done diligent work in this field and hold the Degree of Excellence.

This year the radio programs have taken first place in popularity and many a girl and boy has become an orator overnight for the chance to appear on "Junior Town Meeting" or "The Career Clinic."

Under the firm guiding hand of Mr. David Howland, our advisor, such members as Fred Boyes, Clara Lou Adams, Ted Kesselman and David Page have advanced to great heights.

In the future the National Forensic League shall continue to grow strong because every member feels the real competitive spirit necessary for achievement of our aims.

The German Club has again completed a successful year, combining work with pleasure. In a few well planned meetings, the members had a chance to use the German language in songs, games, and plays. There was the usual Christmas play with its setting in Germany, and songs and refreshments.

Then February brought the treat of hearing of modern Germany from Miss Margaret Fleps, who had just returned from Red Cross service there. To lend a hand, the members helped with the translation of many letters from Germany to the American Red Cross.

Our final meeting was a guest day with the fun of greeting our parents who in turn enjoyed the work of the members. With regret, the seniors said "Aufwiedersehen" to their teacher and advisor, Miss Boynton, and their Kameraden.

"Act well your part, there all your honor lies."

The house lights are dimmed, a hush settles over the audience, from backstage a plaintive wail resounds, "Open that curtain!" The curtain rises.

The voice belonged to Miss Lucille Lee, patient and faithful director of the Rayen Thespians, Troupe No. 479, since its beginning in 1941, and the inspiration of many budding actors and actresses.

Speaking of actresses, we were sorry to lose our January graduates, that "bratty sister", Mary Ann Foust, and the "spry old grandmother", Joann Smith. Who could forget them in "Every Family Has One"? Not to mention Richard Liebman, one of our very active members. And who could forget those cold, dark nights of rehearsal, with Bob Leake's impersonations of Lucretia Borge (when he wasn't working on scenery), Jo Ann Kaye and Charles Creager, never out of character, Clara Lou Adams trying desperately to look matronly, and Nora Glass worrying about a wedding gown, while "Essie", the maid, (Sally Weiss) pessimistically looked on.

The ten points necessary for eligibility in Thespians are laboriously earned by the students of dramatics. Actors, directors, painters, carpenters, electricians,—all are essential in maintaining the glory that is Thespians.

Now June is here, and we find ourselves saying farewell to many friends, but the Thespian traditions will continue, for "the play's the thing."

When fall came, members of the Rayen Nature Club got together and started making plans for their hikes into Mill Creek Park. There, under the able direction of Mr. Senft, they not only learned a great deal about nature, but they also enjoyed themselves.

During the winter few trips were taken because of the cold weather, but as spring drew near, the call of the wild made the hikers eager to resume their trips. One could easily find them out in the park bright and early on Sunday mornings, where they enjoyed hiking for about an hour.

The club welcomes all those interested in nature to come along on its hikes.

The primary purpose of the French Club is to introduce an element of pleasure in the practice and use of the French language. The members play games "in French," which simply means that the words which are usually in English must, in this instance, be translated into French. In doing this, the students unconsciously increase their facility in handling the language.

Instead of meeting directly after school, the club has been meeting at the homes of various members. This practice was initiated during the first semester of this year, and has been found quite successful.

The French Club meets four times a year, which gives each class an opportunity to plan one meeting. As a rule, the third year students plan the first meeting of each season, giving the first year members a chance to familiarize themselves with the routine.

Not only does the French Club seek to improve the linguistic abilities of the students, but it promotes a feeling of greater friendship among them. It allows the members to organize their own programs, thus creating a unified, closely-knit student body.

The purpose of the Library Council is to help at the desk charging books and other such types of work which are required to keep the library in order and running smoothly. The members, Miss Maguire says, save her much time.

Twelve students have served this year. Members for the second semester are Shirley Allen, Rose Fabian, Joan Fatzick, Lois McIlwain, Betty Miller, Arlene Moss, Marilyn Moyer, Marjorie Untch, and Shirley Ward.

The home room representatives were called together on April 30, 1946, by Mr. Tear, who advised the students that they might extend student participation in school government by organizing a Home Room Council. Miss Marie Kryzan was named faculty advisor of the group. Presidents of each home room met thereafter to plan a constitution, which will be ratified after a period of time.

Marie Castor was the first president of the Council, followed by Bette Savage who was elected in March, 1947. Jack Matteson headed the group in September, 1947, and took a prominent part in the dedication of a memorial plaque. Rose Trgovac was elected in February, 1948, and supervised the collection of tax stamps for the purchase of a typewriter for the library. Last fall, the vice-president from the preceding semester, James McFadden, presided until November 2, 1948 when Ted Kesselman was elected president of the council. During Ted Kesselman's term a school dance was held to buy a silver tea set for the school, and the Infantile Paralysis Fund's drive was successfully conducted.

During its brief career, the Home Room Council has taken an active part in helping to sponsor the memorial concert given to purchase a memorial plaque dedicated to the Rayen boys who lost their lives in the recent war. The council has collected tax stamps to help the bookkeeping department raise funds for a comptometer machine and to buy a typewriter for the library. Two school dances have been conducted and the tea set has been bought through the sponsorship of the Home Room Council.

Into the administration of the school go many elements and factors. Our book is an attempt to give the total picture and record.

Aside from the faculty and staff, aside from the orderly line of duty each student follows, many students have specific tasks. This service group makes smooth operation of the school.

The Driving Course was begun in January 1948 with Mr. Benjamin McGinnis as the instructor. Thirty-two students received credit in June 1948, and 30 in the January 1949 class.

In January 1949 Mr. Lee Guisewite, who recently joined the Faculty, became the new driving instructor. There was a full day schedule for fifty-three students enrolled in the course, which has been open only to the graduating Seniors.

Dual-controlled Dodge and Ford cars have been used in the course.

The students have been making their own rules for driving as they go along. Some of them like to drive on the sidewalk, some drive in the ditches, and some drive half on the sidewalk and half on the road; but Mr. Guisewite always manages to get them back on the road again.

We want to thank Mr. Guisewite for the patience he has shown in trying to teach us how to drive, and to wish him the best of luck in his hope of turning out licensed drivers.
